

WealthTax Agent – Canadian Tax Draft Assistant

Upload your Canadian tax slips (T4/T5/RRSP). The system drafts a return summary and explains each key number. You remain responsible for reviewing and deciding whether to use it.

Trust & Responsibility

- System assists with: parsing slips, drafting totals, and plain-English explanations
- Human decides: whether the draft is accurate and safe to use
- Never automated: legal/tax advice and CRA filing

> Why human approval is required

Workflow: Upload slips → Generate draft → Review warnings and totals → Approve if accurate

2) Draft Return Summary (Simplified)

Check these values against your source slips before approving.

Total income	RRSP deduction
$1,945.40	$0.00
Taxable income	Estimated tax
$1,945.40	$486.35

Explanations Parsed slips Draft data

total_income: Total income earned from all sources, including employment, investments, and business earnings.

rrsp_deduction: Deduction for registered retirement savings plan (RRSP) contributions, lowering taxable income.

taxable_income: Income subject to income tax, after deductions like RRSP contributions and charitable donations.

estimated_tax: Estimated amount of tax owed to the Canada Revenue Agency based on previous year's tax return.

estimated_refund: Projected amount of refund you may receive if the estimated tax is greater than the actual tax owed.

3) Human decision

This is the explicit control boundary: the system can draft, but only you can approve use.

Only approve when totals match your slips and you are comfortable taking responsibility for filing decisions.

☒ I verified all summary totals against my source slips.

- ✓ I reviewed the explanations and warning flags.
- ✓ I understand this tool does not file with CRA and I remain responsible.

You approved this draft. The system will NOT file with CRA; you must do that yourself if you choose to use it.

▼ What to do next

1. Compare all fields against your slips and prior records.
2. Resolve warnings or missing values before filing.
3. Use your filing software/portal to submit manually.
